A buyer who does not receive a fully completed copy of this report within 10 days after the acceptance of the contract of sale or option contract for the above-described real property has the right to rescind that contract (Wis. Stat. s. 709.02), provided the owner is required to provide this report under Wisconsin Statutes chapter 709.

THIS TRANSACTION AND IS NOT A SUBSTITUTE FOR ANY INSPECTIONS OR WARRANTIES THAT THE PARTIES

NOTICE TO PARTIES REGARDING ADVICE OR INSPECTIONS

Real estate licensees may not provide advice or opinions concerning whether or not an item is a defect for the purposes of this report or concerning the legal rights or obligations of parties to a transaction. The parties may wish to obtain professional advice or inspections of the property and to include appropriate provisions in a contract between them with respect to any advice, inspections, defects, or warranties.

A. OWNER'S INFORMATION

A1. In this form, "aware" means the "owner(s)" have notice or knowledge.

MAY WISH TO OBTAIN.

- A2. In this form, "defect" means a condition that would have a significant adverse effect on the value of the property; that would significantly impair the health or safety of future occupants of the property; or that if not repaired, removed, or replaced would significantly shorten or adversely affect the expected normal life of the premises.
- A3. In this form, "owner" means the person or persons, entity, or organization that owns the above-described real property. An "owner" who transfers real estate containing one to four dwelling units, including a condominium unit and time-share property, by sale, exchange, or land contract is required to complete this report.

Exceptions: An "owner" who is a personal representative, trustee, conservator, or fiduciary appointed by or subject to supervision by a court, and who has never occupied the property transferred is not required to complete this report. An "owner" who transfers property that has not been inhabited or who transfers property in a manner that is exempt from the real estate transfer fee is not required to complete this report. (Wis. Stat. s. 709.01)

- A4. The owner represents that to the best of the owner's knowledge, the responses to the following questions have been accurately checked as "yes," "no," or "not applicable (N/A)" to the property being sold. If the owner responds to any question with "yes," the owner shall provide, in the additional information area of this form, an explanation of the reason why the response to the question is "yes."
- A5. If the transfer is of a condominium unit, the property to which this form applies is the condominium unit, the common elements of the condominium, and any limited common elements that may be used only by the owner of the condominium unit being transferred.
- A6. The owner discloses the following information with the knowledge that, even though this is not a warranty, prospective buyers may rely on this information in deciding whether and on what terms to purchase the property. The owner hereby authorizes the owner's agents and the agents of any prospective buyer to provide a copy of this report, and to disclose any information in the report, to any person in connection with any actual or anticipated sale of the property.

CAUTION: The lists of defects following each question below are examples only and are not the only defects that may properly be disclosed in response to each respective question.

41 RESIDENTIAL CONDOMINIUM CONCEPTS

- In general terms, residential Condominiums take what otherwise might have been an apartment, townhouse or house, and permits individual sales of the separate dwelling Units. All of the dwelling Unit owners own the common areas together and collectively pay for the upkeep and other common expenses. A Condominium, however, is not like living in an apartment because the owner is usually responsible for the maintenance and repair of everything within the Unit the property manager does not take care of it, as would be the case with a tenant. To understand Condominium ownership, an understanding of certain key concepts is needed.
- 47 Declaration: The Declaration is a written document that creates a Condominium from one or more parcels of real estate. In the Declaration, the owner declares his or her property to now be a Condominium. The Declaration divides the property into several smaller parcels: Units, which are individually owned, and the Common Elements, which are owned in common by all of the Unit owners together. The Declaration sets out what percentage of ownership interest in the Common Elements is assigned to each Unit, and the number of votes that the owner of each Unit has in the Association.
- Declarant: The Declarant is the builder or developer who declares his or her property to be a Condominium by recording the Declarant: The Declarant is the builder or developer who declares his or her property to be a Condominium by recording the Declarant on the Declarant time to finish construction of the Condominium project and/or to sell the Units. During this period, the Declarant exercises the powers and responsibilities of the Association through its exclusive right to appoint the directors to the Association board. As the Units are sold to purchasers, elections are held at different intervals and the Unit owners (other than the Declarant) elect an increasing number of the directors. Declarant Control lasts up to ten years in expandable Condominiums and up to three years in other Condominiums.
- Unit: A Unit is the part of the Condominium that is privately owned and used by the Unit owner. A Unit owner has exclusive ownership and possession of his or her Unit. The statutes define Unit in terms of cubicles of air, enclosed spaces located on one or more floors, and rooms. A Unit may also include structural parts of a building (walls, wood frame) or a Unit may be a whole building, a building plus the surrounding land, or just land (similar to a lot). Units may also include separate areas that are some distance apart. For example, a Unit may include a dwelling plus a storage area, patio or parking space. The boundaries of each Unit are defined in the Declaration, which may describe the perimeter walls, sometimes known as the "perimetric boundaries," the upper boundaries and the lower boundaries. Generally, everything within these boundaries will be part of the Unit. Therefore, each Unit's boundaries may impact the Unit owner's maintenance responsibilities, ability to make improvements or alterations, and insurance liability.
- 67 Common Elements: Common Elements means everything else in the Condominium that is not a Unit. In a typical residential Condominium, the Common Elements may include the land, the exterior and common areas of buildings (entranceway, halls, elevator, meeting room, etc.), landscaping, roads, any outside parking areas, outdoor lighting, any recreational facilities (swimming pool, tennis courts, clubhouse, etc.) and all other common areas and amenities.
- 71 Limited Common Elements: The Limited Common Elements are Common Elements that are identified in the Declaration or plat
 72 as reserved for the exclusive use of less than all of the Unit owners. Typically, a Limited Common Element will be reserved for the 73 use of just one Unit. Basically, you don't own it individually, but you are the only one who may use it. This exclusive use, however,
 74 may be subject to restrictions stated in the Declaration, Bylaws or Condominium rules and regulations. Limited Common Elements
 75 may include features like a storage area, patio, balcony, garage parking space, or a boat slip.
- Percentage Interests: Every Unit owner shares in the ownership of the Common Elements with the other owners. Each Unit is allotted a portion of this ownership interest called the Percentage Interests. The Percentage Interests are stated in the Declaration and come automatically with the ownership of a Unit. The Percentage Interests often determine the share of common expenses that the Unit owner must pay for the repair and maintenance of the Common Elements and for the operation of the Association. Percentage Interests may be an equal percentage for all Units, in proportion to the square footage of the Units, based upon the location or value of the Units, or based upon some other formula stated in the Declaration.
- Association: The Association is the entity that the Unit owners use to act together as a group to manage and maintain the Condominium property and finances. This group will be either a nonstock, nonprofit corporation or an unincorporated Association. Every Unit owner is automatically a member of the Association and votes for the Association directors who, on behalf of the Association, manage and maintain the Common Elements, adopt budgets and set the amount of the fees or assessments paid by the Unit owners for the Association's common expenses. The Association directors typically are responsible for the maintenance of the Condominium property, including lawn and garden care, snow removal, painting, roofs, and amenities such as swimming pools and tennis courts. They are responsible for collecting assessment fees, maintaining books and records, overseeing reserve funds, preparing financial reports, and filing tax returns. The board of directors is responsible for enforcing the rules and providing disclosure materials for Unit sales. Some or all of these functions may be delegated to a Condominium manager or other professionals such as accountants.
- 92 Assessment Fees: The Association sets a budget for all of the Condominium expenses and divides those expenses among the 93 Unit owners. These fees are called "common assessments" or "condo maintenance fees" and typically are paid monthly. The 94 Association may also create reserves for future maintenance and repairs.
